

Celebrities do it.

Liz Tyler and rocker Royston Langdon chose to have a private wedding in Barbados. NFL legend Deion Sanders and his fiancée model Pilar Bigger had 80 friends and family gather with them in the Bahamas.

Why not you?

The big decision to have a destination wedding doesn't have to be hard to accomplish, and no one knows that better than the team at Marsha Steeves Destination Weddings (BC Reg# 3256).

Couples are opting for the no headache, low maintenance wedding, to start their new lives together. Forgoing the "Big wedding day" debt and spend the savings on a new home. Destination weddings allow new families and friends to bond and old families & friends to re-unite. An opportunity to relax and celebrate for the full week instead of just the "day of the wedding".

Marsha Steeves (CTC WPICC DWC), Principal Planner is passionate about making destination weddings a viable option and with her 28 years in the travel business she can do it with aplomb. Her experience traveling to over 40 countries and immersing herself in both travel and wedding planning enables her to continue to amaze brides and grooms. Her enthusiasm, attention to detail and pride in excellence has earned her a solid reputation as the "Go to" person for destination weddings.

Her team handles complete travel & wedding planning all details from A-Z. "We genuinely care about each and every wedding". Offering a full service of both "Travel and Wedding". "We have excellent relationships with tour operators and hoteliers. We have great vendors to work with on-site and off." Among their many services Marsha and her Group coordinator Jennica MacPhee go to the airport to send off every group, which has become one of their signature services.

"Our destination portfolio includes Mexico, the Caribbean, and locations in Central America. Our exotic, more intimate weddings include; Enchanted Islands Collection; Traditional Tahitian Weddings, where the groom will arrive in a canoe, while bride awaits on the beach.

These are full traditional weddings for the couple wanting a true authentic experience. We also do a Fijian traditional wedding, where the ceremony commences with trumpeting of the conch shell, while the bride makes her entrance on a decorated raft (Billi Billi) carried by warriors to her groom. Next the chief honors the couple in a Kava ceremony and the evening ends in a Meke Dance, where locals do a full traditional performance of dance and song.

Full Sikh, Hindu, Jewish, whatever the occasion, all elements and festivities can be incorporated too ensure that each wedding is personalized and reflective of the couples personalities and styles.

Marsha's goal for every wedding is ensuring the couple arrives at the destination, ready to relax and celebrate with family and friends, then experience their custom made "dream wedding".

Marsha's reward? "Hearing that the happy couple and their guests were overjoyed with their Destination Wedding experience and knowing that she has helped launch a lifetime of love and devotion."
