

Destination Weddings Are Hot!

The savvy brides of today are quickly catching on to a new way to whip up a cost-effective "Wedding and Honeymoon" all in one. The latest trend to hit the wedding industry is the..... weddingmoon! The word itself, created by the "Sandals," a 5-star all inclusive luxury experience; offering anything from a free basic wedding package to their signature - "Preston Bailey!" It can be all designed around You! Whether you dream of a wedding in a "romantic castle" in Ireland or you're an avid diver and want to exchange vows in an "under water ceremony."

Couples are tired of the over whelming-expenses, the headaches, never mind the interfering in-laws. Starting out a new life with a burden in tunes of $40,000 is not sounding attractive anymore. People telling you how you should or shouldn't plan your wedding, is not what it is about. While many couples still prefer the "traditional wedding," with the family at home, statistics report an growing number of couples are choosing the low cost, low maintenance, "destination wedding." To escape and tie the knot on the shores of their dream destination. With their toes in the sand and under a sunset sky, the honeymoon can start right away!

A simple call to your "destination wedding specialist" can get you on your way. They will begin with matching you to your dream destination and in- keeping with your budget. Packages including; air from your home city, transfers, and 7 nights, all inclusive can be had for as low as $4,000 a couple. Throw on the wedding package for about out $1,000 and you got a dream wedding and honeymoon for under $5,000. Your wedding packages can range from $450 US$.- $5,000 with an average of $1,500. Your specialist will help you find the right package for you and top it up to meet your exact preferences.

Don't let the documentation part of it scare you off for they will take care of this as well. The basic requirements for most countries involve being in the destination approximately 48 hours (2 business days) prior to the Day. You will need to fill out a form of basic questions that are sent out in advance with a copies of birth certificates and death/divorce decree, if applicable.

If you wish to have guests join, your specialist will set up group space, special group rates and amenities. You can refer them to your specialist on your "Save the Dates", so they can have the trouble of answering all the questions and coordination, not you!

Remember to be diligent and look for an experienced, local "destination wedding specialist." Don't be afraid to ask for testimonials and references. Before you have your consultation, know what you are willing to spend, remembering you don't have to break the bank! But it is also a small investment to a lifetime of memories. Think about where you might want to go. Let your consultant guide you to a wedding moon choice that will offer you the most satisfaction. They will help in orchestrating a most memorable experience, leaving you to commemorate your very special day!
